USE OF THE SPELL WRITING SYSTEM

While the spell writing system (as outlined in The Spell Writing Guide which came with this document) is open for anyone to use as long as the credit me (The Gorilla of Destiny), the 5e compatible spell symbols given here are representing spells with information taken from the SRD under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International License. As such any use of these symbols are subject to the appropriate license and relevant conditions.

INTRODUCTION

Well well well, here we are again. You're probably wondering what this document is and why it's slightly different to the other dictionary. Well, when I first made the Spell Writing Guide, I was using data graciously gathered by the Theory of Magic community. Since then, I have discovered the joy that is the D&D5e API which contains all SRD information about the game (<https://www.dnd5eapi.co/>). Thanks to their hard work I am now able to use more up to date attribute data. If you're familiar with the Spell Saying Guide, you'll recognise the categories as that also uses the API.

Below you will find the updated keys for spells and then a new dictionary which details every spell and its basic rune symbol in the default style. Of course, this is all still customisable (see Spell Writing Guide) but this should serve as a slightly more consistent dictionary. This is also because I have updated the code to be significantly nicer and hopefully less likely to result in inconsistent results.

That said I am still very stupid and there are probably still a lot of mistakes. If you find any, please let me know and I'll try and fix them. This is also the second of three planned dictionaries as I will soon hopefully be making spells that also consider duration since that is required to distinguish most spells fully. There are repeated symbols in here, but I can't find them at the moment. If you plan on using these and find a repeat my suggestion would be to add a number of dots in the centre.

Thank you all as ever, I hope you're well.
